It's time to plan your charity event

You need to think about all the equipment and/or resources you will need and how much they will cost.

Promoting your event is really important

If nobody knows when and where the event will be, they won't come!

Make sure you have planned to spend some money on promotion.

How are you going to tell people about your event, and how much will this cost?

You have created a list of all the things you need

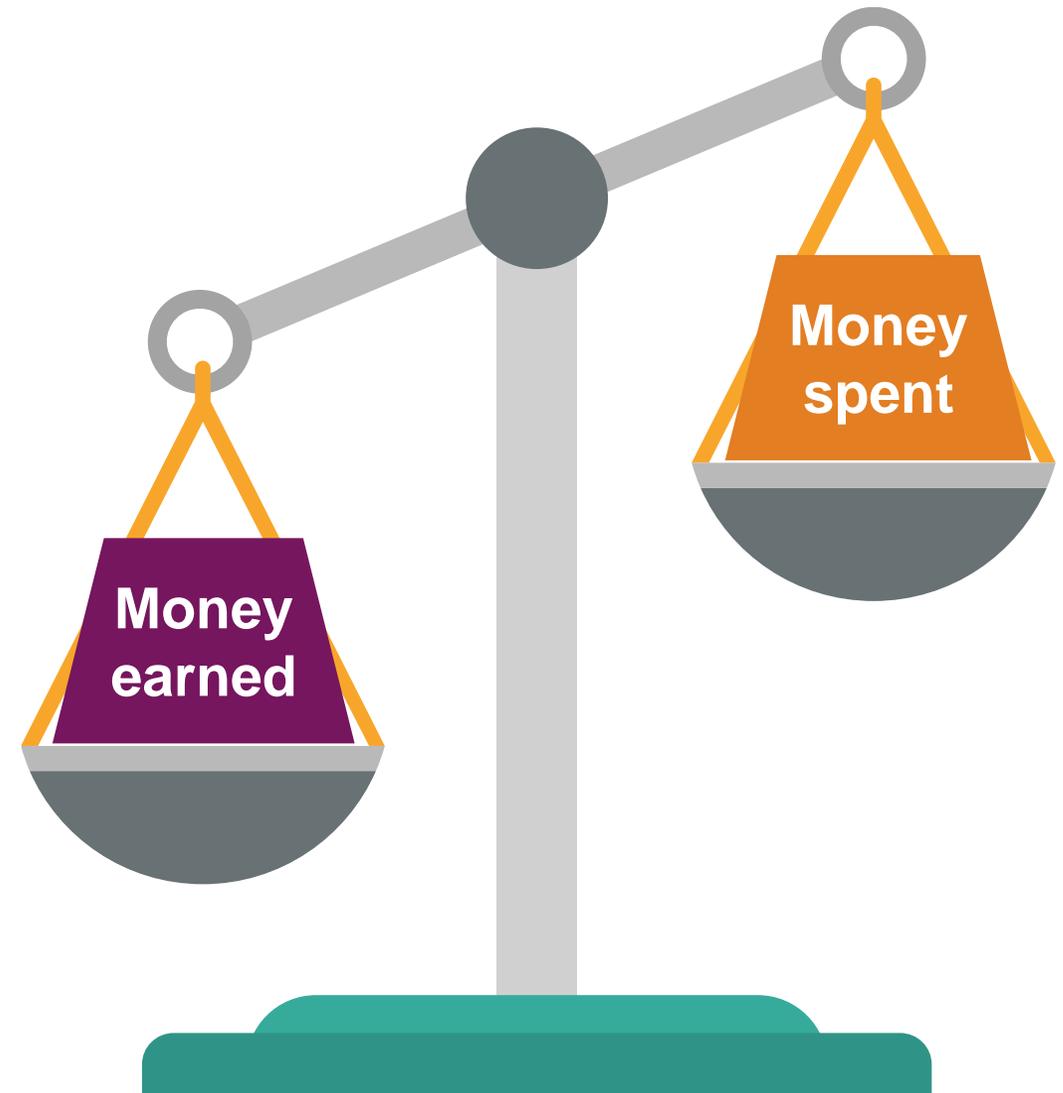

Now find out how much each item costs.

After your event, you need to work out how much you have raised for charity

You need to make sure you are in profit. In other words, that you earned more money selling your products than you spent setting up the event.

How much money are you aiming to raise?

What other events could you plan?

Raising money can enable charities to do lots of different things, including helping people all over the world.
